FOR THE CENTRAL DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

THE PLS.COM, LLC,
Plaintiff,
v.
THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS;
BRIGHT MLS, INC.;
MIDWEST REAL ESTATE DATA,
LLC; and
CALIFORNIA REGIONAL
MULTIPLE LISTING SERVICE,
INC.,
Defendants.

Case No. 2:20-cv-04790-JWH-RAOx

MEMORANDUM OPINION ON MOTIONS OF DEFENDANTS TO DISMISS PLAINTIFF'S
AMENDED COMPLAINT [ECF
Nos. 50, 53, & 55] and MOTION TO STRIKE OF DEFENDANT
MULTIPLE LISTING SERVICE,
INC. [ECF No. 54]

I. INTRODUCTION

This antitrust case concerns an alleged conspiracy among three regional real property multiple listing services—Defendants Bright MLS, Inc. (“Bright MLS”); Midwest Real Estate Data, LLC (“Midwest RED”); and California Regional Multiple Listing Service, Inc. (“Cal Regional MLS”) (collectively, the “MLS Defendants”)—and Defendant The National Association of Realtors (“NAR”) to eliminate a competitor, Plaintiff The PLS.com, LLC. PLS maintains that Defendants are engaging in an unreasonable restraint of trade in violation of § 1 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1, and California’s Cartwright Act, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 16720(a)-(c).¹

Before the Court are the three motions of Defendants Bright MLS and Midwest RED (jointly), Cal Regional MLS, and NAR, respectively, to dismiss PLS’s Amended Complaint pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.² Also pending before the Court is the motion of Cal Regional MLS to strike the second claim for relief in PLS’s Amended Complaint pursuant to California’s Anti-SLAPP Statute, Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 425.16.³ The Court held a hearing on Defendants’ three Motions to Dismiss and on Cal Regional MLS’s Motion to Strike on October 15, 2020. After considering the papers filed in support of and in opposition to all four Motions⁴ and the

5 II. BACKGROUND⁵

6 Transactions for the sale of residential real estate involve a seller and a 7 buyer who are typically each represented by a real estate professional.⁶ Real 8 estate professionals are licensed real estate brokers and agents.⁷ Agents have the 9 most direct relationship with the consumer; they solicit listings, work with 10 sellers to market their homes, and work with buyers to find homes that match 11 the buyers’ preferences.⁸ Brokers supervise agents and often provide branding, 12 advertising, and other services that help agents attract sellers and buyers and 13 complete transactions.⁹ Brokers and agents compete between and among 26 attachments) [ECF No. 88].

27 ⁵ The Court assumes the truth of the factual allegations in PLS’s Amended 28 Complaint solely for the purpose of deciding the Motions. The Court restates PLS’s allegations for context, but it makes no determination regarding their veracity at this stage of the case. See, e.g., Cahill v. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co., 80 F.3d 336, 337-38 (9th Cir. 1996) (on a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim, “[a]ll allegations of material fact are taken as true and construed in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party”).

3 A. The MLS Defendants and NAR

4 Most residential real property for sale in the United States is marketed 5 through a multiple listing service (“MLS”) platform.¹¹ MLSs are joint ventures 6 among, in effect, their members: licensed real estate professionals doing 7 business in a particular local or regional area.¹² Real estate professionals pay for 8 membership and, therefore, access to an MLS, and those professionals must 9 adhere to any restrictions that the MLS imposes.¹³ An MLS combines its 10 members’ home sale listings information into a central database and then makes 11 the listing data available to all of its members.¹⁴ Listing a property on an MLS 12 enables a home seller’s professional to market the property to a large set of 13 potential buyers.¹⁵ Correspondingly, a professional who represents a buyer can 14 search an MLS for listed homes in the area that match the buyer’s preferences.¹⁶

15 The value of the network services provided by an MLS is largely a 16 function of the number of members within the network.¹⁷ That is, the greater 17 the number of members in the MLS, the greater the number of listings on the 18 MLS, which increases the value of membership.¹⁸ Bright MLS, Cal Regional 19 MLS, and Midwest RED are each regional MLSs: Bright MLS serves the Mid-

2 serves areas in the Upper Midwest.²¹

3 NAR is a trade association with more than 1.4 million individual members 4 who are organized into 54 state and territorial associations and more than 1,200 5 local associations (the “Realtor Associations”).²² NAR establishes and 6 promulgates policies and professional standards for its individual members and 7 for its Realtor Associations.²³ Most real estate professionals in the U.S. are 8 NAR members.²⁴ Realtor Associations are required to adopt the rules and 9 polices promulgated by NAR and to enforce those rules on the real estate
10 professionals comprising the associations.²⁵ Those policies include NAR’s 11 Handbook on Multiple Listing Policy.²⁶

12 B. The NAR-Affiliated MLS System

13 There are around 600 MLSs nationwide that are affiliated with NAR 14 through their ownership or operation by NAR’s Realtor Associations (the 15 “NAR-affiliated MLSs”).²⁷ NAR-affiliated MLSs are required to adopt new or 16 amended NAR policies.²⁸ All NAR-affiliated MLSs are actual or potential

1 competitors with other NAR-affiliated MLSs.²⁹ Bright MLS and Cal Regional 2 MLS are NAR-affiliated MLSs,³⁰ while Midwest RED is indirectly owned and 3 controlled by NAR members.³¹ Real estate professionals are not required to be 4 NAR members to participate in NAR-affiliated MLSs.³² Consequently, many 5 real estate professionals who are not NAR members participate in 6 NAR-affiliated MLSs.³³

7 The majority of NAR-affiliated MLSs are for-profit entities that charge
8 membership fees for access to their services.³⁴ For years, NAR-affiliated MLSs 9 have enjoyed a high market share across the country.³⁵

10 C. Pocket Listings

11 MLSs generally impose specific requirements for their members' entry of 12 listing data regarding residential real properties. Sometimes, for a variety of 13 reasons (including privacy), sellers of residential real property want to avoid 14 providing all of the information required to market a listing through an MLS. A 15 seller with those interests might ask her real estate professional to market the 16 listing by other means, outside of an NAR-affiliated MLS system. An off-MLS 17 listing service is referred to as a "pocket listing."³⁶ A pocket listing allows a 18 seller to customize and to limit the amount of information that she provides 19 about her home, and, in this way, a pocket listing affords a seller with a level of 20 privacy and discretion that is not available with an MLS listing.³⁷ Historically,

1 pocket listings were marketed bilaterally by real estate professionals— “face to 2 face, through phone calls, or by email.”³⁸

3 PLS was created in 2017 in response to consumer demand for a 4 centralized, nationwide searchable repository for pocket listings.³⁹ Like an MLS, 5 membership in PLS is available to all licensed real estate professionals who pay a 6 membership fee. But unlike the many regionally-based MLSs, each of which 7 charges its own membership fee, PLS charges a single fee to access its 8 nationwide network.⁴⁰ By joining PLS, real estate professionals can privately 9 share pocket listings in cooperation with other members while avoiding the 10 exposure of those listings through the NAR-affiliated MLSs.⁴¹ Also unlike MLS 11 listings, PLS offers sellers the ability to share as much or as little information 12 about their property as they desire.⁴² In sum, PLS’s business model combines 13 the network efficiencies of an MLS with the privacy and discretion of the pocket 14 listing on a national—as opposed to a local or regional—platform.⁴³

15 D. The Clear Cooperation Policy

16 1. Definition

17 On November 11, 2019, NAR adopted its “Clear Cooperation Policy.”⁴⁴

18 The text of the Clear Cooperation Policy is as follows:

19 Within one (1) business day of marketing a property to the public, 20 the listing broker must submit the listing to the MLS for cooperation 21 with other MLS participants. Public marketing includes, but is not 22 limited to, flyers displayed in windows, yard signs, digital marketing

1 on public facing websites, brokerage website displays . . . , digital 2 communications marketing (email blasts), multi-brokerage listing 3 sharing networks, and applications available to the general public.⁴⁵

4 NAR created an exception to its Clear Cooperation Policy for so-called 5 “office listings,” which are listings marketed entirely within a brokerage firm 6 without submission to an MLS.⁴⁶ The Clear Cooperation Policy became 7 effective on January 1, 2020, and it was included as a mandatory rule in the 2020 8 NAR Handbook on Multiple Listing Policy.⁴⁷ NAR-affiliated MLSs enforce 9 Clear Cooperation by monitoring members’ adherence to the policy, by 10 encouraging members to report violations, and by threatening or imposing 11 penalties on members for non-compliance.⁴⁸

12 2. History and Adoption

13 In the months leading up to NAR’s adoption of the Clear Cooperation 14 Policy, the MLS Defendants privately and publicly coordinated with NAR, 15 which has a national footprint, to formulate Clear Cooperation as a method to 16 stamp out pocket listings.⁴⁹ The collusion between the MLS Defendants and 17 NAR began in August 2019 at a meeting of NAR’s MLS Technology and 18 Emerging Issues Advisory Board.⁵⁰ PLS alleges, on information and belief, that 19 a representative of Midwest RED was present at this meeting as a representative 20 of the Council of Multiple Listing Services (the “MLS Council”).⁵¹ The NAR

3 In September 2019, the MLS Defendants were among the signatories of a 4 white paper that called for action against the threat of pocket listings.⁵³ On 5 October 16, 2019, Bright MLS adopted a policy similar to the Clear Cooperation 6 Policy, which (as discussed above) NAR adopted the next month.⁵⁴ Around the 7 same time, Midwest RED published a statement supporting the adoption of the 8 Clear Cooperation Policy at NAR’s upcoming convention.⁵⁵ On October 17 and 9 18, 2019, the MLS Defendants met at an MLS Council conference.⁵⁶ The CEO 10 of Midwest RED and the Chairman of Bright MLS each made statements at the 11 conference to address the purported threat of pocket listings to the MLS 12 business model. Midwest RED’s CEO discussed Midwest RED’s pocket listing 13 policy,⁵⁷ and Bright MLS’s Chairman advocated for the adoption of similar 14 policies—including the policy that eventually became Clear Cooperation—and 15 encouraged participants to attend the upcoming NAR convention.⁵⁸

16 III. LEGAL STANDARD

17 A. Motions to Dismiss

18 A motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6) of the Federal Rules of Civil 19 Procedure tests the legal sufficiency of the claims asserted in a complaint.
20 Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir. 2001). In ruling on a Rule 12(b)(6) 21 motion, “[a]ll allegations of material fact are taken as true and construed in the 22 light most favorable to the nonmoving party.” Am. Family Ass’n v. City &

1 County of San Francisco, 277 F.3d 1114, 1120 (9th Cir. 2002). Although a 2 complaint attacked through a Rule 12(b)(6) motion “does not need detailed 3 factual allegations,” a plaintiff must provide “more than labels and 4 conclusions.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007).

5 To state a plausible claim for relief, the complaint “must contain 6 sufficient allegations of underlying facts” to support its legal conclusions. Starr 7 v. Baca, 652 F.3d 1202, 1216 (9th Cir. 2011). “Factual allegations must be 8 enough to raise a right to relief above the speculative level on the assumption 9 that all the allegations in the complaint are true (even if doubtful in fact)” 10 Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555 (citations and footnote omitted). Accordingly, to 11 survive a motion to dismiss, a complaint “must contain sufficient factual matter, 12 accepted as true, to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face,” which 13 means that a plaintiff must plead sufficient factual content to “allow[] the Court 14 to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct 15 alleged.” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (internal quotation marks 16 omitted). A complaint must contain “well-pleaded facts” from which the Court 17 can “infer more than the mere possibility of misconduct.” Id. at 679.

18 B. Leave to Amend

19 Pursuant to Rule 15(a) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, leave to 20 amend “shall be freely granted when justice so requires.” The purpose 21 underlying the amendment policy is to “facilitate decision on the merits, rather 22 than on the pleadings or technicalities.” Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1127 23 (9th Cir. 2000). Leave to amend should be granted unless the Court determines 24 “that the pleading could not possibly be cured by the allegation of other facts.”
25 Id. (quoting Doe v. United States, 8 F.3d 494, 497 (9th Cir. 1995)).

26 IV. DISCUSSION

27 PLS argues that, by promulgating and adopting the Clear Cooperation 28 Policy, Defendants engaged in an unreasonable restraint of trade in violation of 1 § 1 of the Sherman Act and California’s Cartwright Act.⁵⁹ To assess the 2 plausibility of PLS’s claims, it is necessary first to take note of the applicable 3 antitrust principles and the elements that PLS must plead to state a claim. See 4 Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 675; Twombly, 550 U.S. at 553–54.

5 A. PLS’s Claim Under § 1 of the Sherman Act

6 Section 1 of the Sherman Act provides that “[e]very contract, 7 combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy, in restraint of trade 8 or commerce among the several States, or with foreign nations, is declared to be 9 illegal.” 15 U.S.C. § 1. “Congress designed the Sherman Act as ‘a consumer 10 welfare prescription.’” Reiter v. Sonotone Corp., 442 U.S. 330, 343 (1979)
 11 (quoting R. BORK, THE ANTITRUST PARADOX 66 (1978)). Key concepts 12 underlying antitrust law include the notion that when economic resources are 13 allocated to their best use, and when competitive price and quality are assured to 14 the consumer, consumer welfare is maximized. See Rebel Oil Co. v. Atl. Richfield 15 Co., 51 F.3d 1421, 1433 (9th Cir. 1995); accord National Gerimedical Hosp. and 16 Gerontology Ctr. v. Blue Cross of Kansas City, 452 U.S. 378, 387–88 & n.13 (1981).
 17 Thus, “an act is deemed anticompetitive under the Sherman Act only when it 18 harms both allocative efficiency and raises the prices of goods above competitive 19 levels or diminishes their quality.” Id. Accordingly, the Supreme Court has 20 repeatedly emphasized that in enacting the Sherman Act, “Congress intended to 21 outlaw only unreasonable restraints” on trade or commerce. Texaco Inc. v.
 22 Dagher, 547 U.S. 1, 5 (2006) (quoting State Oil Co. v. Khan, 522 U.S. 3, 10 23 (1997)).

24 Restraints can be unreasonable for antitrust purposes in one of two ways.
 25 Some restraints are unreasonable per se because they “always or almost always 26 tend to restrict competition and decrease output.” Broadcast Music, Inc. v.
 27

28 ⁵⁹ Id. at ¶¶ 123 & 126.

1 Columbia Broadcasting Sys., Inc., 441 U.S. 1, 19-20 (1979); see also Ohio v.
2 American Express Co., 138 S. Ct. 2274, 2283 (2018) (“Amex”). If the challenged 3 restraint is not unreasonable per se, then the restraint is judged under the Rule of 4 Reason. Id. at 2284.

5 Most antitrust claims are analyzed under the Rule of Reason. See State 6 Oil Co. v. Khan, 522 U.S. 3, 10 (1997). The goal of the Rule of Reason analysis is 7 to “distinguish[h] between restraints with anticompetitive effect that are harmful 8 to the consumer and restraints stimulating competition that are in the 9 consumer’s best interest.” Id. (quoting Leegin Creative Leather Products, Inc. v.
10 PSKS, Inc., 551 U.S. 877, 886 (2007)). To state a § 1 claim under the Rule of 11 Reason, a plaintiff must plead sufficient facts to show the plausible existence of 12 “(1) a contract, combination or conspiracy among two or more persons or 13 distinct business entities; (2) by which the persons or entities intended to harm 14 or restrain trade or commerce among the several States, or with foreign nations; 15 (3) which actually injures competition.” Kendall v. Visa U.S.A., Inc., 518 F.3d 16 1042, 1047 (9th Cir. 2008). In addition, a plaintiff must also plead (4) that it was 17 harmed by the unlawful anti-competitive restraint and that such harm flowed 18 from an “anti-competitive aspect of the practice under scrutiny.” Atl. Richfield 19 Co. v. USA Petroleum Co., 495 U.S. 328, 334 (1990). The latter element is 20 referred to as an “antitrust injury.” Brantley v. NBC Universal, Inc., 675 F.3d 21 1192, 1197 (9th Cir. 2012); accord Atl. Richfield, 4985 U.S. at 334.

22 The underlying goal of the per se rule and the Rule of Reason is, 23 ultimately, the same; both “‘are employed “to form a judgment about the 24 competitive significance of the restraint.”’ [Citation.] ‘[W]hether the ultimate 25 finding is the product of a presumption or actual market analysis, the essential 26 inquiry remains the same—whether or not the challenged restraint enhances 27 competition.’” Atl. Richfield, 495 U.S. at 342 n.12 (internal citations omitted).
28 In this regard, the antitrust injury requirement is paramount. “The antitrust

1 injury requirement ensures that a plaintiff can recover only if the loss stems from 2 a competition-reducing aspect or effect of the defendant’s behavior.” Id. at 341 3 (emphasis in original).

4 1. Antitrust Injury

5 Standing is a “threshold question in every federal case;” it implicates 6 “the power of the court to entertain the suit.” Warth v. Seldin, 422 U.S. 490, 7 498 (1975) (“the question of standing is whether the litigant is entitled to have 8 the court decide the merits of the dispute or of particular issues”). In private 9 antitrust cases, the plaintiff is required to make plausible allegations regarding 10 both constitutional standing and antitrust standing. See Associated Gen.
11 Contractors of Calif., Inc. v. Calif. State Council of Carpenters, 459 U.S. 519, 535
12 n.31 (1983). In the constitutional dimension, standing requires justiciability: 13 that “the plaintiff has made out a ‘case or controversy’ between himself and the 14 defendant within the meaning of [Article] III.” Warth, 422 U.S. at 498. In most 15 antitrust cases, the “[h]arm to the antitrust plaintiff is sufficient to satisfy the 16 constitutional standing requirement of injury in fact.” Associated Gen.
17 Contractors, 459 U.S. at 535 n.31. But the standing inquiry does not end there.

18 In addition to the traditional constitutional limitations upon standing, 19 “Congress imposed . . . limitations upon those who can recover damages under 20 the antitrust laws.” Pool Water Prods. v. Olin Corp., 258 F.3d 1024, 1034 (9th 21 Cir. 2001); see also Brunswick Corp. v. Pueblo Bowl-O-Mat, Inc., 429 U.S. 477, 22 485–86 (1977). These limitations are often referred to as “antitrust standing 23 requirements.” Pool Water, 258 F.3d at 1034. Because § 1 of the Sherman Act 24 does not provide a private right of action, private parties like PLS must bring 25 their Sherman Act claim “pursuant to the authorization under [§] 4 of the 26
27
28

1 Clayton Act.”⁶⁰ Id. Under that statute, “private plaintiffs can be compensated 2 only for injuries that the antitrust laws were intended to prevent.” Id.; see also 3 Atl. Richfield, 495 U.S. at 334 (the plaintiff must plausibly allege “the existence
 4 of ‘antitrust injury.’” (quoting Brunswick, 429 U.S. at 489)).⁶¹

5 As a rule of standing, the “antitrust injury” requirement embodies the 6 fundamental principle that antitrust laws “were enacted for ‘the protection of 7 competition not competitors’” Brunswick Corp., 429 U.S. at 488 (quoting Brown 8 Shoe Co. v. United States, 370 U.S. 294, 320 (1962)) (emphasis in original), 9 because “[i]t is inimical to [the antitrust] laws to award damages’ for losses 10 stemming from continued competition,” Cargill, Inc. v. Monfort of Colorado, Inc., 11 479 U.S. 104, 109–110 (1986) (quoting Brunswick, 429 U.S. at 488).⁶² The 12 Supreme Court has explained that “[t]he purpose of the [Sherman] Act is not to 13 protect businesses from the working of the market; it is to protect the public 14 from the failure of the market.” Spectrum Sports, Inc. v. McQuillan, 506 U.S.
 15 447, 458 (1993). In this regard, the antitrust injury requirement clarifies that the 16

17 ⁶⁰ PLS alleges that it has standing to assert its claim under § 1 of the 18 Sherman Act pursuant to §§ 4 and 16 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 15 & 26.
 Amended Complaint ¶ 23.

19 ⁶¹ “[A] plaintiff’s obligation to provide the “grounds” of his “entitle[ment] 20 to relief” requires more than labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation 21 of the elements of a cause of action will not do. See Papasan v. Allain, 478 U.S.
 22 265, 286 (1986) (on a motion to dismiss, courts “are not bound to accept as true a legal conclusion couched as a factual allegation”). Factual allegations must be enough to raise a right to relief above the speculative level” Twombly, 550 U.S. 544.

23 ⁶² In United States v. Topco Associates, Inc., 405 U.S. 596 (1972), the Supreme Court explained that “[a]ntitrust laws in general, and the Sherman Act in 24 particular, are the Magna Carta of free enterprise. They are as important to the 25 preservation of economic freedom and our free-enterprise system as the Bill of Rights is to the protection of our fundamental personal freedoms. And the 26 freedom guaranteed each and every business, no matter how small, is the freedom to compete—to assert with vigor, imagination, devotion, and ingenuity whatever economic muscle it can muster.” Id. at 610; see also William Page, The 27 Scope of Liability for Antitrust Violations, 37 STAN. L. REV. 1445, 1451 (1985) (“most commentators now agree that the purpose of [antitrust] law is to 28 maximize economic efficiency, or consumer welfare, by the preservation of competitive markets” (footnote omitted)).

1 Sherman Act is not directed against “conduct which is competitive, even 2 severely so, but against conduct which unfairly tends to destroy competition 3 itself . . . , out of concern for the public interest.” Id. (emphasis added).

4 Thus, even when a challenged restraint has the effect of eliminating a 5 rival, thereby reducing competition (at least with that rival), the elimination of a 6 rival without harm to consumer welfare does not invoke the Sherman Act. See 7 Rebel Oil Co., 51 F.3d at 1433 (citing Prods. Liab. Ins. Agency, Inc. v. Crum & 8 Forster Ins. Cos., 682 F.2d 660, 663 (7th Cir. 1982)); see also Reiter, 442 U.S. at 9 343. A private antitrust plaintiff must allege a plausible connection between the 10 harm to itself and harm to the ultimate consumer. See Atl. Richfield, 495 U.S. at 11 340–42. In sum, to allege a plausible antitrust injury, a private plaintiff must 12 allege facts that, assumed to be true, show that the plaintiff’s injuries are caused 13 by an anticompetitive aspect of the defendant’s conduct that also injures 14 competition and consumers. See id. at 334–35 & 342–44; Rebel Oil Co., 51 F.3d 15 at 1445; see also Cargill, 479 U.S. at 109–110; Brunswick, 429 U.S. at 489.

16 Here, Defendants contend that PLS has not alleged facts plausibly to 17 demonstrate that PLS has suffered an antitrust injury and, therefore, that PLS 18 does not have standing as an antitrust plaintiff. For the reasons explained below, 19 the Court agrees.

20 In analyzing the antitrust injury requirement in the context of this case, 21 one fundamental point informs the Court’s analysis: the distinction between, on 22 the one hand, a pocket listing as a particular service offered to home sellers by 23 real estate professionals, and, on the other hand, PLS’s business, which provides 24 a platform for its members to market their pocket listings. As described above, a 25 pocket listing, or an off-MLS listing, is a type of brokerage service provided by 26 real estate professionals to home sellers who, “for reasons of privacy or 27
28

1 security”⁶³ for example, wish to avoid providing the detailed information that is 2 required for a listing to be submitted to, and marketed through, an 3 NAR-affiliated MLS.⁶⁴ PLS emerged as a platform for real estate professionals 4 to market private listings to other members without having to provide the 5 detailed listing information required by the NAR-affiliated MLSs, thus 6 preserving the home seller’s interest in not disclosing certain information about 7 her listing.⁶⁵

8 a. The Alleged Injury to PLS

9 To assess whether PLS states a plausible antitrust injury, the Court begins
 10 with PLS’s allegations regarding how the Clear Cooperation Policy harms PLS’s 11 business.

12 PLS alleges that the Clear Cooperation Policy has “eliminated the ability 13 and incentive of real estate professionals to market pocket listings through 14 PLS,”⁶⁶ which has foreclosed PLS from accessing “a critical mass of listings 15 necessary to obtain significant network effects and compete with the 16 NAR-affiliated MLSs in the relevant market(s).”⁶⁷ Consequently, listings were 17 removed from PLS and submitted to NAR-affiliated MLSs, agent participation 18 in PLS declined, and “PLS was foreclosed from the commercial opportunities 19 necessary to innovate and grow.”⁶⁸ PLS claims damages in the form of “lost 20 profits”⁶⁹ and “lost equity and goodwill,”⁷⁰ which “diminish[ed] the value of 21

22 ⁶³ Amended Complaint ¶ 6. A seller might also desire a pocket listing in 23 order “to test the market for their home without the stigma that comes from listing and then delisting the property on a NAR-affiliated MLS.” Id.

1 PLS as a going concern.”⁷¹ PLS seeks injunctive relief and an award of 2 compensatory and treble damages.⁷²

3 PLS’s allegations in this regard are sufficient to meet the constitutional 4 requirement for injury-in-fact and the first element of antitrust injury. PLS 5 plausibly alleges that the Clear Cooperation Policy effectively discourages real 6 estate professionals who are also members of an NAR-affiliated MLS from 7 marketing their listings on PLS’s platform. Those real estate professionals’ 8 refusal to use PLS’s platform necessarily harms PLS’s business. But this is only 9 the first element of antitrust injury—the constitutional dimension of the 10 standing inquiry.

11 Whether the Clear Cooperation Policy “may be properly characterized as 12 exclusionary” for the purpose of an antitrust injury cannot be answered simply 13 by considering its alleged effects on PLS. See Aspen Skiing Co. v. Aspen 14 Highlands Skiing Corp., 472 U.S. 585, 605 (1985); Brantley, 675 F.3d at 1200 15 (“Plaintiffs may not substitute allegations of injury to the claimants for 16 allegations of injury to competition.”). The Court must also consider whether 17 PLS has alleged facts to show that the Clear Cooperation Policy harms 18 competition and consumers in the same way. See id.; Rebel Oil Co., 51 F.3d at 19 1445 (“because the Sherman Act’s concern is consumer welfare, antitrust injury 20 occurs only when the claimed injury flows from acts harmful to consumers”).

21 b. The Alleged Injury to Consumers

22 In evaluating whether conduct can be properly characterized as 23 exclusionary, the Court must consider how the challenged restraint affects 24 consumers and “whether it has impaired competition in an unnecessarily 25 restrictive way.” Aspen Skiing Co., 472 U.S. at 605. In this regard, 27 ⁷¹ Id. at ¶¶ 125 & 128.

28 ⁷² See id. at Prayer for Relief.

1 “‘exclusionary’ comprehends at the most behavior that not only (1) tends to 2 impair the opportunities of rivals, but also (2) either does not further 3 competition on the merits or does so in an unnecessarily restrictive way.” Id. at 4 605 n.32 (quoting 3 P. AREEDA & D. TURNER, ANTITRUST LAW 78 (1978)) 5 (quotation marks omitted).

6 Thus, the second element of antitrust injury requires PLS to allege facts 7 showing a plausible injury to consumers that flows from an anticompetitive 8 aspect of Defendants’ conduct; in this case, the alleged restraint on output 9 through the Clear Cooperation Policy that limits the ability of NAR members, or 10 members of an NAR-affiliated MLS, to compete to provide services to 11 consumers.⁷³ See Atl. Richfield, 495 U.S. at 335–36, 338–40, & 342–44 (rejecting 12 the contention that “any loss flowing from a per se violation of § 1 automatically 13 satisfies the antitrust injury requirement” and explaining that antitrust injury 14 does not arise until “an anticompetitive aspect of the defendant’s conduct” 15 injures both the plaintiff and consumers (emphasis in original)). The Supreme 16 Court has explained that violations of the antitrust laws may have three, often 17 interwoven, effects: “In some respects the conduct may reduce competition, in 18 other respects it may increase competition, and in still other respects effects may 19 be neutral as to competition.” Id. at 344. An antitrust injury does not arise, 20 however, unless and until the challenged restraint also injures consumers. Id. at 21 335–36, 338–40, & 342–44.

22 PLS attempts to translate its own harm into harm to consumers by 23 alleging that the Clear Cooperation Policy injures real estate professionals (the 24 proximate purchasers of real estate listing network services) and home sellers 25 and buyers (the ultimate consumers) through the same “mechanism of injury” 26
27

28 ⁷³ See Opposition 27:1–13.

1 to PLS.⁷⁴ Specifically, PLS avers that through the Clear Cooperation Policy, 2 NAR “restrained the ability of licensed real estate professionals to offer” pocket 3 listings, which purportedly harms consumers and competition by eliminating 4 “from the market a form of real estate brokerage services desired by 5 consumers,”⁷⁵ thus excluding PLS, and thereby artificially maintaining or 6 increasing the prices paid by real estate professionals for listing services.⁷⁶ The 7 Court finds that these allegations do not show a plausible injury to the ultimate 8 consumers—the home buyers and sellers. Fatally, PLS’s theory that the Clear 9 Cooperation Policy is a restraint on the output of brokerage listing services to 10 consumers is illogical, and, additionally, it is contradicted by the allegations that 11 PLS makes elsewhere in its Amended Complaint.⁷⁷ See Iqbal, 556 U.S at 675 12 (“A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that 13 allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for 14 the misconduct alleged.”); Brantley, 675 F.3d at 1198 (“a complaint’s allegation 15 of a practice that may or may not injure competition is insufficient to ‘state a 16 claim to relief that is plausible on its face.’” (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 17 570)); Kendall, 518 F.3d at 1047–48.

18 PLS does not allege any facts showing when, where, or, notably, how the 19 output of real estate brokerage services or off-MLS listing services has 24 ⁷⁷ Cf. id. at ¶¶ 35–37, 88–91, & 106–115. Citing these paragraphs, PLS 25 succinctly summarizes its antitrust injury allegations as follows: “By requiring 26 third-party listing agents who wish to obtain the essential benefits of NAR 27 membership to provide their listings to the MLS defendants, id. ¶¶ 35–37, 88– 28 91, Clear Cooperation not only harms competition by reducing output and quality in the market for listing services, id. at ¶¶ 106–15, but in so doing, it ‘cut[s] off’ PLS’s access to a supply, pocket real estate listings, that is ‘necessary to enable the boycotted firm’—PLS—‘to compete.’” Pl.’s Suppl.

 Brief 7:1–7 (quoting Nw. Wholesale Stat., Inc. v. Pac. Stat. & Print. Co., 472 U.S.
 284, 294 (1985)).

1 decreased.⁷⁸ Defendants and PLS provide different marketing platforms for 2 those listings. PLS does not adequately allege that the Clear Cooperation Policy 3 has increased prices for services purchased or otherwise paid for by home sellers 4 and buyers⁷⁹ or that home sellers and buyers have been denied brokerage 5 services⁸⁰ that they desire as a result of the Clear Cooperation Policy.⁸¹ In the 6 absence of any specific factual allegations to support PLS’s conclusions 7 regarding consumer harm, there is no plausible antitrust injury.

8 PLS’s antitrust injury contention is fundamentally flawed in yet another 9 respect. PLS does not allege a plausible injury to participants on both sides of 10 the market. The real estate market is a typical two-sided market where different 11 products or services are offered to two distinct groups of customers—home 12 sellers and home buyers. Listing platforms such as those provided by the MLS 13 Defendants and PLS facilitate transactions by connecting sellers with potential 14 buyers.⁸² See Ohio v. American Express, 138 S. Ct. 2274, 2280 (2018) (“a two-16 ⁷⁸ Cf. Amended Complaint at ¶¶ 95, 111, 112, & 121 (listings were removed 17 from PLS and submitted instead to NAR-affiliated MLSs, and NAR-affiliated 18 MLSs continue to allow members to market off-MLS listings).

19 ⁷⁹ With respect to conspiracies to restrict output and how they injure 20 consumers, compare, e.g., In re National Football League’s Sunday Ticket Antitrust 21 Litig., 933 F.3d 1136, 1155, 1157–58 (9th Cir. 2019) (allegations of conspiracy to 22 restrict output of telecasts resulting in prices paid by the ultimate consumers 23 being higher than they would be in the absence of the conspiracy were sufficient 24 to allege antitrust standing), with Amended Complaint ¶¶ 114, 115, & 122; see 25 also Apple Inc. v. Pepper, 139 S. Ct. 1514, 1521–23 (2019).

26 ⁸⁰ PLS acknowledges that the market for real estate brokerage services is 27 relevant to assess harm to competition and consumers. Amended Complaint 28 ¶ 115 (the Clear Cooperation Policy “harmed consumers and competition by eliminating from the market a form of real estate brokerage services desired by consumers”).

⁸¹ See Cal. Dental Ass’n v. F.T.C., 526 U.S. 756, 776–77 (1999) (the relevant question is whether the challenged restraint obviously tends to limit the total delivery of services to the consumer); Amended Complaint ¶ 95 (NAR-affiliated MLSs continue to allow members to market off-MLS listings through private networks); cf. Nat’l Collegiate Athletic Ass’n v. Board of Regents of Univ. of Oklahoma, 468 U.S. 85, 114–15 (1984) (plaintiffs alleged a reduction in overall output of services to consumers as a consequence of the challenged restraint).

⁸² See Amended Complaint at ¶ 31; see also id. at ¶¶ 19, 26, & 31 (explaining that the MLS Defendants “facilitate[]” real estate transactions).

1 sided platform offers different products or services to two different groups who 2 both depend on the platform to intermediate between them”); see also Evans &
 3 Noel, Defining Antitrust Markets When Firms Operate Two-Sided Platforms, 2005
 4 COLUM. BUS. L. REV. 667, 668 (2005) (“members of one customer group need 5 members of the other group”).⁸³ Amex sets forth a pleading standard in antitrust 6 cases involving two-sided platforms: a plaintiff must allege (and later prove) 7 injury to participants on both sides of the market. See Amex, 138 S. Ct. at 2287 8 (“Evaluating both sides of a two-sided transaction platform is . . . necessary to 9 accurately assess competition.”); Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 675.

10 Accordingly, PLS must allege a plausible injury to both home sellers and 11 home buyers, which it has not done. It is, perhaps, telling that PLS’s allegations 12 focus almost entirely on home sellers. PLS makes no allegations regarding any 13 demand for pocket listings by home buyers, no allegations explaining how pocket 14 listings are beneficial to home buyers,⁸⁴ and no allegations regarding how the 15 Clear Cooperation Policy harms home buyers. PLS’s failure to address the 16 buyer’s side of the market is not surprising given that the alleged inherent 17 18 ⁸³ Compare Amended Complaint ¶¶ 50 & 51 (discussing the value of 19 network services offered by MLSs), with Evans & Noel, supra, at 686–87 20 (indirect network effects promote larger and fewer two-sided platforms because “[p]latforms with more customers in each group are more valuable to the other group”).

21 ⁸⁴ Cf. id. at ¶ 8. PLS alleges that its platform benefits buyers by offering 22 them an opportunity to learn about properties that were not widely marketed.
 23 This allegation, however, does not explain how buyers are otherwise benefited 24 by off-MLS listings. According to PLS’s allegations, PLS effectively offers 25 buyers the same basic benefit as an MLS (an opportunity to learn about 26 properties on the market), but without the other efficiencies that are created by 27 increased information and competition (mostly through information sharing on 28 an MLS), as explained above. Indeed, one of the most important market efficiencies created by an MLS “is manifested in the reduction of the obstacles brokers must face in adjusting supply to demand: market imperfections are overcome in that information and communication barriers are reduced, along with the easing of the built-in geographical barrier confronting the buyer-seller relationship. Moreover, a realistic price structure is engendered.” Arthur D.
 Austin, Real Estate Boards and Multiple Listing Systems as Restraints of Trade, 70
 COLUM. L. REV. 1325, 1329 (1970), cited with approval in U.S. v. Realty
Multi-List, Inc., 629 F.3d 1351, 1356 (5th Cir. 1980).

1 advantages of a pocket listing—e.g., increased privacy and security for a seller to 2 market his home without the wide exposure of the MLS and the avoidance of the 3 stigma from listing and then delisting a property from the MLS⁸⁵—appear to 4 benefit the seller, almost exclusively. In contrast, home buyers stand to benefit 5 from an increase in available information about the market (which increases 6 price competition), not from a reduction in the provision of such information.

7 PLS simply has not alleged plausible facts to show an injury to consumers 8 on both sides of the market. These fundamental problems, taken together, show 9 that PLS cannot allege a plausible antitrust injury.

10 c. The Alleged Injury to Competition

11 On its face, the Clear Cooperation Policy does not preclude real estate 12 professionals from offering pocket listing services, nor does it preclude them 13 from marketing their listings on PLS. Furthermore, there is no plausible 14 inference from the alleged facts that the Clear Cooperation Policy has any such 15 restrictive effect on the output of brokerage services to consumers. PLS does 16 not allege any facts to show that real estate professionals have stopped (or will 17 stop) offering pocket listings, or other types of listing services, when those 18 services are demanded by consumers.⁸⁶ To the contrary, sellers who desire to 19 avoid listing their properties on an MLS may do so, for example, by working 20 with an NAR-affiliated MLS member through the office exclusive exception⁸⁷ or 21 by engaging a real estate professional who does not belong to an NAR-affiliated

22 _____
 23 ⁸⁵ Id. at ¶ 6.

24 ⁸⁶ Cf. Amended Complaint ¶ 115 (suggesting the opposite, i.e., that real estate professionals will presumably continue to compete to provide pocket listings as they have before).

25 ⁸⁷ The office exclusive exception is significant. PLS alleges that the 26 presence of large brokerages operating across the nation increased demand for a nationwide listing network. See id. at ¶¶ 46, 48, & 49. Surely, then, marketing a 27 private listing within a large nationwide brokerage under the office exclusive exception provides significant exposure of the property in an off-MLS setting.
 28 This is important in evaluating whether the Clear Cooperation Policy has the plausible effect of reducing output of services to consumers. It does not.

1 MLS.⁸⁸ Moreover, the plain text of the policy does not proscribe real estate 2 professionals from marketing pocket listings in the same way as they have 3 previously: “bilaterally . . . , face to face, through phone calls, or by email.”⁸⁹
 4 Furthermore, the Clear Cooperation Policy does not proscribe real estate 5 professionals from making a choice about the listing network platforms in which 6 they choose to participate. Of equal importance, consumers are not deprived of 7 any choice in products or services.

8 Indeed, accepting PLS’s allegations as true, the Clear Cooperation Policy 9 has some plainly pro-competitive aspects, which underscore that PLS cannot 10 allege a plausible connection between harm to its business and harm to 11 competition and consumers. See F.T.C. v. Indiana Federation of Dentists, 476 12 U.S. 447, 459 (1986) (in some cases, anticompetitive effects, or their absence, 13 can be logically inferred based upon a rudimentary understanding of economics).
 14 At worst, the Clear Cooperation Policy is neutral to competition. And when a 15 challenged restraint is beneficial or neutral to competition, “there is no antitrust 16 injury, even if the defendant’s conduct is illegal per se.” Rebel Oil Co., 51 F.3d at 17 1433 (emphasis added).

18 The Clear Cooperation Policy requires listings that are publicized by a 19 member of an NAR-affiliated MLS to be reciprocally listed on an MLS for 20 exposure to other MLS members.⁹⁰ This means that all MLS members have 21 access to information about listings that are publicly marketed by other MLS 22

23 ⁸⁸ Id. at ¶ 95 (since the adoption of the Clear Cooperation Policy, 24 NAR-affiliated MLSs have “effectively allow[ed] their members to market 25 off-MLS listings under the auspices of the NAR-affiliated MLSs without 26 violation of . . . Clear Cooperation Policy”); see also id. at ¶¶ 89, 93, & 115–17 (implicitly recognizing that the Clear Cooperation Policy has not resulted in a decrease in overall output of services to consumers).

26 ⁸⁹ Id. at ¶ 8; see also id. at ¶ 95.

27 ⁹⁰ Id. at ¶ 89; see also id. at ¶¶ 32, 50, & 51 (explaining the inherent benefits 28 of MLS membership, and that the value of membership in an MLS is a function of the contributions of the MLSs members).

1 members, which ultimately promotes competition among real estate 2 professionals and home sellers and buyers.⁹¹ Basic economics dictates that 3 increased information about market conditions stimulates more competition 4 among real estate professionals, whose goal is, at least in part, to match a buyer 5 and a seller as quickly and efficiently as possible. This effect minimizes 6 transaction costs. Consumers also have access to more information regarding 7 market conditions, enabling them to make better informed choices about the 8 bundle of real estate brokerage services that will best serve their needs.

9 Although the Clear Cooperation Policy may harm PLS by discouraging 10 the use of PLS's platform,⁹² that injury to PLS's business model does not 11 translate to consumer harm. Notably, PLS alleges that the Clear Cooperation 12 Policy results in, among other things, listings being "removed from PLS and 13 submitted instead to NAR-Affiliated MLSs."⁹³ Shifting sales to "other 14 competitors in the market," however, "does not directly affect consumers and 15 therefore does not result in antitrust injury." Pool Water Prods., 258 F.3d at 16 1036. Indeed, based upon this allegation (and others like it),⁹⁴ it is evident that 17 the Clear Cooperation Policy does not reduce the output of brokerage services to 18 home sellers and buyers, nor does the policy reduce competition among the real 19 estate professionals who provide services to consumers. Compare Cal. Dental 20 Ass'n, 526 U.S. at 776-77 (no reduction in overall output of services to 21 consumers), and Broadcast Music, Inc. v. Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., 441
 22 U.S. 1, 21-24 (1979) (to similar effect), with Sunday Ticket Antitrust Litig., 933 23 F.3d at 1155 (the challenged restraint plausibly reduced the overall output of 24 services to consumers by restricting games available for viewing).

1 2. Leave to Amend

2 In sum, based upon the foregoing, the Court finds that PLS fails to allege a 3 plausible antitrust injury, so it will grant Defendants’ Rule 12(b)(6) Motions.
4 PLS requests leave to amend.⁹⁵ The Court, however, finds that another 5 amendment of the complaint would be futile, for two reasons.

6 First, the parties’ substantive meet-and-confer efforts already resulted in 7 PLS’s filing of the Amended Complaint, and PLS declined to amend its pleading 8 a second time.⁹⁶ See Salameh v. Tarsadia Hotel, 726 F.3d 1124, 1133 (9th Cir.
9 2013) (a district court has “particularly broad” discretion to deny leave to 10 amend where the plaintiff has previously amended). Second, under these 11 circumstances, an amended complaint must allege “other facts consistent with 12 the challenged pleading” that could “cure the deficiency.” Schreiber Distrib.
13 Co. v. Serv-Well Furniture Co., 806 F.2d 1393, 1401 (9th Cir. 1986). In view of 14 the fundamental problems with PLS’s theory of antitrust injury discussed above, 15 the Court finds that the complaint cannot be saved by amendment. See 16 Steckman v. Hart Brewing, 143 F.3d 1293, 1298 (9th Cir. 1998) (“Although there 17 is a general rule that parties are allowed to amend their pleadings, it does not 18 extend to cases in which any amendment would be an exercise in futility or 19 where the amended complaint would also be subject to dismissal.”) (citations 20 omitted).

21 Accordingly, the Court will GRANT Defendants’ respective Motions, 22 without leave to amend.

1 3. The Remaining Elements of PLS’s Claim Under § 1 of the 2 Sherman Act

3 With respect to Defendants’ other arguments for the dismissal of PLS’s 4 Amended Complaint, the Court would grant the motion by Midwest RED for 5 the reasons set forth below.

6 As stated in the preceding sections, to state a § 1 claim, a plaintiff must 7 plead facts showing the plausible existence of “(1) a contract, combination or 8 conspiracy among two or more persons or distinct business entities; (2) by 9 which the persons or entities intended to harm or restrain trade or commerce 10 among the several States, or with foreign nations; (3) which actually injures 11 competition.” Kendall, 518 F.3d at 1047.

12 With respect to the first element, the Court would find that PLS 13 sufficiently alleges concerted action by Defendants Bright MLS, Cal Regional 14 MLS, and NAR. NAR promulgated the Clear Cooperation Policy, see 15 Alvord-Polk, Inc. v. Schumacher Co., 37 F.3d 996, 1007 (3d Cir. 1994) (a trade 16 association’s adoption of regulations that govern competition between members 17 is sufficient to plead concerted action); see also Silver v. N.Y. Stock Exchange, 373
 18 U.S. 341 (1963), and Bright MLS and Midwest RED, as NAR-affiliated MLSs,⁹⁷ 19 were obligated to adopt the Clear Cooperation Policy by May 1, 2020, pursuant 20 to the 2020 NAR Handbook on Multiple Listing Policy,⁹⁸ see, e.g., Robertson v.
 21 Sea Pines Real Estate Cos., 679 F.3d 278, 286-87 (4th Cir. 2012) (MLS rules are 22 concerted action under § 1); Freeman v. San Diego Ass’n of Realtors, 322 F.3d at 23 1150; Realty Multi-List, 629 F.2d at 1361 & n.20. Although the Amended 24 Complaint does not allege that Bright MLS and Cal Regional MLS ultimately 25 adopted the Clear Cooperation Policy, PLS’s allegation that Bright MLS and 1 Cal Regional MLS were required to do so supports a plausible inference that 2 they did.⁹⁹ At this stage of the litigation, such allegations are sufficient to plead 3 concerted action under § 1.

4 PLS does not, however, allege facts plausibly to show that Midwest RED 5 was part of the alleged conspiracy. Notably, Midwest RED is not an 6 NAR-affiliated MLS, and PLS does not allege that Midwest RED adopted the 7 Clear Cooperation Policy. PLS merely alleges that Midwest RED participated in 8 private communications about the Clear Cooperation Policy through the MLS 9 Council, voiced support for the Clear Cooperation Policy, and was present for a 10 vote recommending that NAR adopt the Clear Cooperation Policy at a later 11 date.¹⁰⁰ These are allegations of parallel business conduct; they are not 12 sufficient to establish Midwest RED's participation in the alleged conspiracy 13 because such allegations do not give rise to a plausible inference that Midwest 14 RED ever reached an agreement with the other MLS Defendants or NAR 15 regarding the Clear Cooperation Policy. Twombly, 550 U.S. at 553–554 16 (allegations of parallel business behavior, even “conscious parallelism,” falls 17 short of establishing an agreement constituting a Sherman Act offense); In re
 18 Musical Instruments & Equip. Antitrust Litig., 798 F.3d 1186, 1194 (9th Cir. 2015) 19 (to similar effect). Moreover, PLS's conclusory allegation that Midwest RED is 20 a competitor with the other MLS Defendants is not plausible, given that each of 21 the MLS Defendants serves a different geographic market.¹⁰¹

 23 ⁹⁹ See id. at ¶¶ 68–94, 102, & 104–05.

24 ¹⁰⁰ Id. at ¶¶ 71, 73–74, 77–79, & 86.

25 ¹⁰¹ The Court would not make any such finding with respect to the 26 NAR-affiliated MLS Defendants because PLS's allegation that the 27 NAR-affiliated MLSs were obligated to adopt the Clear Cooperation Policy is 28 sufficient to plead concerted action, as explained above. Thus, the question with respect to Bright MLS and Cal Regional MLS is whether they were competitors with each other, and competitors with PLS in a national market. The Court would find that this is a question of fact not suitable for resolution on a motion to dismiss. See Newcal Indus., Inc. v. Ikon Office Solution, 513 F.3d 1038, 1044–45 (9th Cir. 2015).

1 Putting aside, for the moment, the Court’s analysis and conclusion with 2 respect to the element of antitrust injury, the Court would otherwise find that 3 PLS has alleged facts plausibly to show that the Clear Cooperation Policy is a 4 prima facie unreasonable restraint of trade under the Rule of Reason 5 framework.¹⁰² See Indiana Fed. Of Dentists, 476 U.S. at 459–62 (agreement to 6 limit services offered to consumers requires a procompetitive justification under 7 the Rule of Reason); In re Nat’l Football League’s Sunday Ticket Antitrust Litig., 8 933 F.3d 1136, 1150–51 (9th Cir. 2019) (same); Newcal Indus., 513 F.3d at 1044– 9 45 (there is no requirement that a plaintiff allege the defendants’ power within 10 the relevant market with specificity, and “relevant market” element is typically 11 a factual element); Rebel Oil Co., 51 F.3d at 1433–35. Whether PLS would 12 ultimately prevail under the Rule of Reason framework necessarily would 13 involve questions of fact—such as the procompetitive justifications offered by 14 Defendants and the market power of the respective Defendants—that would not 15 be appropriate for resolution at this stage of the litigation.

16 B. PLS’s Claim under the Cartwright Act

17 Claims under § 1 of the Sherman Act and claims under the Cartwright Act 18 are analyzed under the same legal standard. See name.space, Inc. v. Internet Corp.
 19 for Assigned Names & Numbers, 795 F.3d 1124, 1131 n.5 (9th Cir. 2015); City of 20 Tuolumne v. Sonora Cmty. Hosp., 236 F.3d 1148, 1160 (9th Cir. 2001).

21 Accordingly, the Court’s analysis of and conclusion regarding, PLS’s claim 22 under § 1 of the Sherman Act are dispositive of PLS’s claim under the 23 Cartwright Act.

24 V. CONCLUSION

25 Based upon the foregoing, the Court will enter an Order GRANTING 26 Defendants’ respective Motions to Dismiss, without leave to amend, on the
